

AUTO TRADES TO FIGHT REGISTRY

New Money Scheme of Registers of Deeds Is Scored by Rock County Dealers.

Charging that the Register of Deeds' association of Wisconsin is behind a bill in the state legislature to register automobiles, and that it is an attempt to force an automobile to have his car registered with the register of deeds in his county and pay a fee of 50 cents before he can transfer it or get a license for it, the Rock County Automobile Trade Association has started a concerted movement to kill the proposed statute. They are working with auto organizations throughout the state.

The dealers declare this means that every owner of a car must contribute 50 cents to the register of deeds in his county and pay a fee of 50 cents before he can transfer it or get a license for it. They are working with auto organizations throughout the state.

Not Guilty, Is Verdict in Case Against Foley

It was nothing but a dog fight, but it brought out a dog fight, which ended in a court fight here Thursday.

It took but 10 minutes for a six-man jury to acquit Eugene Foley, Clinton, shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday. Nine witnesses were examined, four for the state and five for the defense. The charge was assault and battery.

The affair it was brought out, had its origin in the village of Clinton a few weeks ago. When a dog named "Climax" came into town bringing his owner, Niman's canine didn't like the looks of Foley's dog so they decided to fight it out in the streets.

The jury was composed of J. P. Carra, Fred Eiler, William Seefeld, Fred Jansen, John Ward and A. A. Hartman.

Voice of the People

Editor Gazette:

In reading the recent issues of the Gazette voice of the people editor, I could not help but notice the rebellious feeling of the World War veterans, over the drive that is now being carried on for the benefit of the German children. They have a right and a righteous right to feel rebelious. How any red blooded American citizen can contribute to that cause when our own country is filled with destitute and hungry people, is more than I can comprehend.

It is not that the German children are more than I can comprehend. It is not that the German children are more than I can comprehend.

From the State Capital

Int. Association Press—

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—The past week of Wisconsin's legislature was marked by inactivity on the part of the assembly, while the senate forged on with committee hearings and with discussion of several important measures. The lower house has apparently been unable to get under way through failure on the part of its members to bring in their bills.

Senate committee hearings started Wednesday and Thursday afternoon when 29 bills were disposed of, eight of which were introduced by committee action, and most of the others either killed or laid over.

Assembly committee hearings are scheduled to commence Wednesday when a few minor bills will be considered. It is expected that the coming week will open activity in the lower house with introduction of the large number of bills now in the hands of the members. The legislature has decided to get down to work, by adoption of a resolution making compulsory the daily session of the assembly.

The senate committee on the bill to amend the constitution, which was introduced by Senator Kesteven, will also be held today. The committee will consider the bill to amend the constitution, which was introduced by Senator Kesteven.

Deep Secret in County and City Offices Bared.

The typewriter in the office of County Agent J. A. Glasco clicked merrily one Friday morning.

The typewriter in the office of County Agent J. A. Glasco clicked merrily one Friday morning. The typewriter was singing a tune, likewise merrily. Even the chair squeaked with a merry air.

Each and every one around the office wondered. And there was a slight strain of ink on the index finger of the right hand of the index finger. That was a clue. Questions directed at the typing typist rattling the machine with the afore said merry air failed to bring any reply. She still sang and the typewriter still clicked with a melody that sounded something like Handel's "Gloria" written years and years ago, but which is still played once in a while. That was clue number two. Mendelssohn and a staid one in a white, that was clue number three. Mendelssohn and a staid one in a white, that was clue number three.

Upstairs in the office of County Clerk Howard W. Lee there was a solution. Fastened upon the board was a marriage license application number 18.

It was for Edwin J. Bartlett, city clerk, and Miss Lillian D. Brown, stenographer in the county agent's office. The date was named as being February 1.

EGG-BUYER HELD ON CHECK MIX-UP

Sam Dorf, formerly Janesville, was arraigned in municipal court Friday on a charge of giving a $400 check to E. H. Katzebach, town of Turtle.

Sam Dorf, formerly Janesville, was arraigned in municipal court Friday on a charge of giving a $400 check to E. H. Katzebach, town of Turtle. Knowing he didn't have enough money in the Citizen's bank at Delavan to cover it, Dorf has been in Chicago lately selling chickens and eggs. Before that time he was in Delavan.

He came to Janesville Thursday he said, to make arrangements to settle for the check which was issued May 17, 1920, but instead was placed under arrest by Fred Beley, undersheriff.

Judge Maxfield adjourned his hearing to April, allow him to make good his promise of settling.

WAR VETS PRESENT GERMAN CAMPAIGN

Want Those Who Subscribed to Give Equal Amount for Local Relief.

Resentment over the showing made by the county in northern Rock county for German relief, when the Salvation Army had all it could do to raise $2,100 for local distress, was expressed at a group meeting this morning. Through Dr. Leigh Woodworth, commander of the legion, all those who gave to the German relief and did not subscribe to the Salvation Army were asked to give an amount equal to what they gave the Germans to the fund for present distress in this city.

"Charity begins at home," said Dr. Woodworth. "Any one who can afford to give to a German cause at this time when there is so much need right here in our own town, should not positively contribute to the German relief fund as much as he gave the Germans. The American Legion of Janesville expects that those who help the first to give their share to the United Relief fund of their home city."

To Get List. When Albert A. Finkh, this city, chairman of the German Relief drive in northern Rock county, was interviewed this morning on the stand of the American Legion, he declared that he did not care to have his name used in connection with any reply.

"You tell the legion to get ready and collect that money," he said, "and I will turn over the list of subscribers to the legion if it cares to have it. He stated that he would probably contribute to the local relief fund."

J. Cunningham, treasurer for the German fund, said he is unable to furnish a complete list of those who have subscribed, but would give out the list of names which are in his possession.

It is the plan of the legion to make use of these lists and request the German subscribers to contribute an equal amount to the United Relief.

Holman Donates $15. L. O. Holman, ex-service man and manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was the first to comply with the suggestion by giving his check for $15, duplicate of what he contributed to the German fund.

"Everyone who gave to the Germans should certainly be asked to give an equal amount to the city's present needs," he said. "There is something wrong when we are only $2,100 in the northern half of the county for work like that which the Salvation Army does and then a sum like $3,600 is raised for the Germans. We have to take care of our own people first."

Others behind this action are Ralph Kamp, vice-commander of the Legion; Louis Shea, chairman; Harry Ross, chairman of the legion's relief committee; Frank Slaten, historian; Robert J. Cunningham, ex-commander.

Mrs. E. L. Kimberly is still confined to her home, 320 East Milwaukee street, after two months' illness. Lyle Mathews, 163 North Franklin street, has returned from Alton, Ill., where he spent three months with his grandfather.

Mrs. Lucy Shaver, De Kalb, Ill., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Parker, Keokuk street. She is spending the winter here.

Mrs. Roy Cannon, Milwaukee avenue, left today for Green Bay where she will join Mr. Cannon and accompany him on a business trip through the north.

SUGGESTS FILL JOB TO KEEP MEN WORKING

In the hope of giving temporary employment to at least a half dozen laborers, J. W. Kicher, 1419 Sharon street, has advanced a proposition to the city to make a fill on South Main street at the curve near the Federal Sand & Gravel company. The street should be widened at this point, he believes, believing that now is a good time to do it.

He agrees to superintend the job for 50 cents a yard, the actual cost of labor, in addition to furnishing all material, water and fuel for the present time. His proposal will be submitted to the council for action at the adjourned regular meeting Monday night.

TELEGRAPHERS LOOK FOR BETTER BUSINESS

The manager of the local branch of the Western Union Telegraph company, C. C. Matthes, has returned from Milwaukee where he has been attending a four days' conference of commercial telegraph managers.

Fifty-eight managers from the state and from upper Michigan attended and discussed the present state in business. It was their belief and the belief of the speakers that the telegraph business would be among the first to pick up. It was one of the last to feel the slump of the officials who spoke at the meetings, which were held at the Plankinton hotel, were A. C. Kaufman, New York, general commercial agent; A. C. Kronkhitte, Chicago, general manager of the telegraph division of the Western Union; F. B. Travis, city superintendent of Milwaukee and A. R. MacGrath, Chicago, district superintendent.

LIVESTOCK LEADER SAYS "ORGANIZE!"

Community organization, the need of leadership and a definite plan of work were urged by George Davies, secretary of the Wisconsin Livestock association, at the meeting held in the La Grange hall, La Prairie township, last night.

E. S. Smith presided. Two hundred and fifty attended. Other guests of the program were given by R. K. Overton, R. T. Glasco, county agent, and Miss Elizabeth Miller. Following the dinner and bureau meeting, there was a musical program furnished by Robert Jones and Mrs. Winnie Scott.

POSTMASTER HERE IS CLAIM AGENT

Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, through a recent ruling of the post office department, is made claim agent for all claims against the post office department for loss or damage on insured parcels sent through the mails in Janesville.

This ruling saves more than one-third of the time heretofore necessary to get a settlement, as all vouchers are now made by Postmaster Cunningham.

TO TALK SUNDAY ON INDIAN LIFE

Dr. L. C. Barnes, New York City, engaged in special work among the Indians for the Baptist Home Mission society will be the featured speaker at the Baptist church here Sunday morning. He will tell of his work in the Indians.

He will visit Madison Monday and Tuesday to attend the Wisconsin conference there. Several of the local church people will also go.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR SUNDAY MEETINGS

With special music by the Wisconsin School for the Blind orchestra the Y. M. C. A. will hold the first of a series of services at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the "Y" lobby. Assemblyman Alexander E. Matheson will speak Sunday on the "Spirit of Christianity in Professional Life" and Rev. Franklin P. Lewis on "Perils of the New Day." Men and older boys are invited.

ALL FOOD PRICES IN BIG DECLINE

General Slashing Noted in Prices Paid to Farmers on Local Market.

A heavy slump is noted in all the local markets except the livestock during the past week.

The livestock drops were in the grain markets, 10 per cent or more. Barley, the top for which was at $1.60 and the bottom $1.50, is now at from $1.30 to $1.40 per 100 lbs. Oats have taken a drop of ten cents per bushel and are now at 35 to 40 cents per bushel. New corn took a big drop, now being $15 to $16 per ton, where it was from $19 to $20. Hay was $24 per ton and now stands at $22 for the top, while some brings only $20.

The drop in eggs, creamery and dairy, butter, will also be of interest to the farmer bringing in goods to local dealers. Dairy butter is 40 cents pound, where it was 43 cents pound, after a drop of three cents, now stands at 41 cents a pound; and eggs, which grocers were paying 60 cents a dozen for, now bring only 50.

A remarkable drop in potatoes is also noted. At the first of the week, they were 55 cents per bushel and now bringing only 70. This commodity has dropped 40 cents, or almost 33 per cent in three weeks, while other crops have not fallen so much.

In the livestock market, things look a little brighter. The majority of the changes being up. Many of the different commodities only went up a small bit while hops raised from $7 to $8.50 up to $8 to $8.50. The revised market list can be found on the market page.

PROTEST LAUNCHED AGAINST PROPOSED LICENSING SYSTEM

Warning that a campaign is under way by the treasury department of the United States to endeavor to get a law passed in congress taxing auto owners $200,000,000 for the next three years was announced today by the Rock County Automobile Trades association.

To raise this amount, they state, the individual cost per auto owner will be $22 a year additional tax.

"It is manifestly unfair," they state, "to single out one particular industry to bear such an immense proportion of this necessary increase."

It can be said that the thousands who comprise the automobile owning public, are not only willing but anxious to pay their proportion of any tax increase, but when one industry which has grown to be the third greatest in the country is singled out exclusively to pay $200,000,000 for the next three years, it is a protest that should be entered against taxing an unfair share.

There is also before congress a bill to double the state tax on automobiles. Secretary Houston's official position makes it almost a certainty that his recommendations will be carried out unless all who own automobiles enter their protest.

Auto owners have been asked by the legislature to write immediately to Senator J. L. Lenroot, Senator Robert M. LaFollette and Congressman Clifford Randall, entering their protest.

REV. JACOBS OUSTED FROM IOWA CHURCH

Rev. A. C. Jacobs, who at one time lived in Brodhead with a sister, Mrs. Louis Fieck, was ousted from his position as pastor in the small Bluffs church, according to information received here this afternoon over the telegraph wire. Recently the report was sent out that Rev. Jacobs had been attacked by the church in Bluffs.

Information is being sought of the charges alleged Rev. Jacobs by the congregation of his church.

The Gazette editorial rooms will be changed from the first to the second floor of the Gazette building today. Gazette readers will be welcomed in the new and commodious place of labor. Making a newspaper like the Gazette requires a trained staff, working at peak load as the electricians say, for many hours a day. It is therefore important that they should be given the advantages of a pleasant place in which to labor. This applies also to the larger staff that makes it possible to print the paper with the latest and best of mechanical processes. Comfort in the strenuous day of effort and action is of the greatest importance, and the Gazette believes it has accomplished a great deal in having such a place in which the highest efficiency is possible.

WHY THE EMERGENCY BOARD IS AN INVITATION TO A DEFICIT.

One of the reasons for the existence of the Emergency Board which pays out the state money when the expenses of the state institutions exceed the appropriations and acts as a sort of second legislature, is the cowardice of the legislature itself. Since the Emergency Board came into existence it has been the habit of the legislature to cut appropriations for the state institutions below the possibility of conducting them on the funds allowed. They openly stated to trustees or other officials of the institutions that they were well aware of the impending and certain deficit. But—and here enters the Emergency Board—if the institution ran short of funds, as it was bound to do on the system of appropriations, then there was the board made up and functioning for the very purpose of meeting deficits. The "emergency" was not an emergency at all, but a carefully planned and understood situation bound to arise and from which there was no possible escape other than to close the doors of the institution in question.

What is the remedy? Certainly a carefully worked out budget for each institution and the appropriation of enough money to meet defined expenses. We have a governor and other state officials on the job all the time. If a state institution should suffer from fire or flood, from epidemic or disaster, or if the conditions of cost of articles used should suddenly rise, it is well to make it possible to meet such an emergency by act of the constituted officials and not invite deficits with the present Emergency Board. The present term of the legislature is a good time to begin right on this matter in the interest of the taxpayers of the state by abolishing the Emergency Board.

THE FINAL BILL FOR GERMANY.

The final bill for Germany of 54 billions of dollars has been prepared and will be submitted for payment at an early date. Germany does not want to pay and no one will blame her people for that position, but those who dance must pay the fiddler. The war cost the United States, an innocent nation, a hundred thousand lives and $40,000,000,000. Our bill alone is almost equal to what is asked of Germany as reparation for the allies and we get nothing as our share of the penalty imposed. Germany began the war, carried it on to either dominate or wreck the world, and with her own territory unscathed, her own homes standing intact, her borders not invaded, she should pay to the limit.

YES, SIR, TWO DOLLAR LIMIT IS GAMBLING.

We have it from no less a person than the able Federal Judge Keneaw Mountain Landis, that a poker game in a soft drink parlor with a $2-limit is gambling. A citizen of our neighbor city of Edgerton having a day as an actor in the greatest human drama played for some time in Wisconsin, at the Federal court, was the immediate instigator of the court's erudite dictum. Poker came in to the drama, which had as its theme, the illicit sale of liquor of a higher power in alcohol than is usually allowed in the carbuters of a soft drink place, as collateral evidence to prove the reputation of the place. Poker, played with three kinds of chips costing not to exceed a dime each beginning with a white one at a penny, has, ever since the Mississippi river was dug, been considered a national game. When a wheel is placed on the limit and 25 cents makes a strong jackpot, it is to be inferred from the decision of the judge, that poker does not constitute gambling within the purview of the law. But $2 in these piping times of murder and hold-ups and income taxes—that is another thing. This being so, the police of Janesville have their duty cut out. What the judge would say of schmeer with a 12½ cent corner for the house, would be welcome to the officials of Janesville, who are determined to stamp out gambling let come what may.

CARRYING EGGS FROM STARVING CHINA TO THE UNITED STATES.

We have been receiving great cargoes of eggs, some million of dozen, from South China, and their sale in the eastern cities of the country have had a deal to do with the reduction in the price here at home. But the strange part of the story is that we are raising money to feed North China, where the starvation in Shantung and other provinces has astounded a super-shocked world. It is a long voyage from the home of the hen that laid the egg to the United States, much farther than to North China, and to a people who have been subsisting on grass and the inner bark of trees, an egg would make a comfortable meal.

Special Schools for Gifted Children

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—That the gifted child needs a special kind of schooling, just as much as the defective child, if he is to reach his full usefulness, is an idea which is gaining recognition in this country.

In Germany, it appears, it has been fully recognized. American educators are studying the German system of schools for gifted pupils. The Bureau of Education is giving special attention to the problem. In a few American cities tentative efforts have been made to establish special schools or classes for the gifted.

The argument for such schools is this: Among school children is a certain percentage who are highly and specifically gifted; They are the children who will, or at least may, become artists, writers, composers, original scientific investigators, leaders in various lines. They represent nothing less than the future creative power of the nation and of the world. It is the work of such people that makes a civilization. The rest merely carry on what the creators start.

Surely, then, these children are worthy of special attention. Surely an intelligent nation will make every effort to find them out and help them along. Yet this has never been done in this country.

It is useless to pretend that the regular school course is suited to the gifted child. It is necessarily adapted to the average child. The gifted child usually suffers in two ways. In the first place he does not take to the slow and plodding routine of it, and in the second place he has no adequate training in his special line. The boy with a gift for drawing, for instance, is punished for making a cartoon of the teacher in the back of his book when he should be studying algebra. But if a school system knew how to use the human material, this boy would at once be out in an art class, and he would not be forced to take a great deal of mathematics, which perhaps he could neither use nor comprehend.

Underfed and tubercular children are placed in outdoor schools in many cities, and given suitable attention. The abnormally dull child is cared for in a special class, where his case is studied, and he is taught as an individual so that what powers he has may develop. In an ordinary school room these types are unable to conform to conditions, and are a constant worry to the teacher. So they are provided for in most city schools. But the bright child, who is just as much in need of special attention, and so much better worth it, is usually disregarded.

The German idea is to have the children who seem brightest to their teachers observed for two years and given tests by a board of examiners, and school superintendents.

This plan has been tried out in Berlin now for three years. In the main it is considered successful, and it is being extended to different parts of the country. The difficulties are in details—the basis on which candidates should be selected, and the character of the training to be given them.

It is interesting to note that the desiderata are chosen by intelligence and psychological tests. Germany has always been a country where education progressed from one examination to another, examination—all fact tests. The new movement is entirely different. The various cities have their own tests, but in one city which is probably typical the candidate is gauged according to such points as attention, memory, imagination, thinking ability, expression through language, susceptibility to fatigue, disposition and will, and power of observation.

The schools for the all-round bright children have suggested a need for a similar system of segregating those who are particularly good at one thing—mathematics, or drawing, or physics. This type is now being provided for in some German cities with the idea of developing talents of those who may distinguish themselves in artistic or scientific pursuits.

Such children may not be accounted good students, but if they show some talent they are given examination in their line of interest by a board of school officials and specialists in art, electricity, or whatever the subject may be. If the result warrants training, they are sent to a school for gifted pupils and given every opportunity to blossom out.

This certainly looks like conservation of brains, but it is too soon to tell whether it will prove a good investment for the state. That will depend partly on the method of conducting the schools, and partly on the pupils themselves. If the candidates are selected fairly and by sensible tests it should be possible to sort out the best pupils. And if the schools do fit the course to the individual, instead of following the accepted rule of shaping the child to fit the course, the graduates turned out should be superior to the usual standard product of a modern school system.

It is well known, however, that not all promising children develop into brilliant men and women, even when advantages are given them. What is taken for unusual intelligence in a child of 11 may be an extra good memory, with little sense of reasoning or judgment back of it. This has been shown again and again in the child prodigies who are always being exploited. At six years they recite Latin odes and talk half a dozen languages. At 12 they are ready for college and confound gray-haired professors with their erudition. But at 25 you do not hear of their being elected to Congress or startling the world with new theories, or writing the great American novel. This difficulty should be overcome by the use of all around intelligence tests instead of examinations which test little besides memory.

Judging by the results to date, the German school officials figure that about 1½ per cent of the school population can be counted on to prove themselves worth the extra trouble of special training. This percentage of our public school population would be about 300,000 children. While the advisability of special schools for these pupils in our country has not been considered, scattered attempts are being made in a few of our cities to recognize the rights of the bright pupil.

We might take the money we are sending over to China and buy the eggs at a great saving for the starving rather than to feed ourselves on these eggs which have made a number of profits en route to the consumer. Some of the things we do in this highly efficient world are beyond understanding.

That meeting of the farmers and others in co-ordinating lines at Madison next week and for ten days after will be a record-breaker, we believe, if the assurances of the program are carried out.

That man who advertised he would sell goods for a song must have been thinking of Mary Garden.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE SPOILER.
With a twinkle in his eye
"Folks come early to the fair,"
An' he'd whistle to the children
An' he'd beckon 'em to come.
Then he'd chuckle low an' say,
"Come along, I'm just your company
To buy a little gum."

When his merry call they'd hear,
All the children, like a flock,
Would come flying from the gardens
Like the chickens after wheat.
When we'd shake our heads an' say:
"No, you musn't go today!"
To the fair to let him have 'em
To buy a little gum."

Oh, he spoiled 'em, one an' all,
There was not a youngster small
That was over his head,
He was stuffed with lollipops,
An' I think his greatest joy
Was to get some girl or boy
An' bring 'em to their parents.
All besmeared by chocolate drops.

Now the children's hearts are sore
For he comes to them no more.
And no more do they hear his voice
And no more for them he stops:
But in Paradise, I think,
With his chuckle and his wink
He is leading little angels
To the heavenly candy shops.

I don't recall his name,
Although his shooting yesterday
Brought quite a bunch of fame.
And everybody stood around him

And that crime is passed.
We have so many names now
To count them doesn't pay.
I can't remember names of those
Who have been shot today.

Who's Who Today

ROBERT SCOTT LOVETT.
Determining the amount for railroads presents one of the fine arts, for the value of their services depends much upon their influence and their ability to inspire the confidence of the men who invest money. The fine executive qualities which are needed are also cultivated by lawyers with a penchant for railroad finance.

Robert Scott Lovett, who draws a salary of $140,000 a year as chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific railroad, was born in San Jacinto, Texas, June 1, 1869, when he was named on the map. After attending the high school at Houston he spent years in self-study and self-mastery.

His education was admitted to the bar with a fine equipment of varied knowledge and a clear grasp of detail. As counsel for the Southern Pacific and other railroads, he has been in touch with the financial interests in that capacity. When the government took over the railroads during the war Lovett was made director of additions and betterments under the administrator.

Ventures in Common Sense
By ED. HOWE, of Atchison.

Did the oldest inhabitant really know Columbus and Ponce de Leon as he claims? Did he kill as many bears and Indians as he says he did? He is the oldest man in town, and no one is able to dispute him. Stories of the past, when well told, are always better than the truth which is told. Whether it did or not, the story is a good one, and will never be forgotten. The stories of the oldest inhabitant finally become history.

Professor Eli Metchnikoff has long interested me; it was generally said of him that he was one of the first dozen of the world's oldest men, judged by statistics and natural intelligence. One of his contentions was that death between the ages of sixty and eighty was not natural, and that it should not be uncommon for people to live to be one hundred and fifty years old. Metchnikoff had all that education and natural intelligence may give any man, yet in his own case, after persistent following of his health formula, he must have been 75 years.

I am not laughing at the man; I admired him greatly. He enjoyed the undisputed distinction of being as intelligent and well educated as any man living; it was signed by the only seven or eight equalled him in these respects. It is a distinction greater than that enjoyed by any general, poet, artist or statesman of the past or present; but with his greater equipment, his guess was as poor as yours or mine.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Forty Years Ago

Jan. 29, 1881.—Uncle Tom's Cabin was presented here last night at the Opera house, which was packed, for the first time in some months. It was presented by the Abercrombie company, from Boston, and was better than any other. Five young ladies gave a dance at Capon's hall last night, all of the younger set attending.

Jan. 29, 1890.—Four young men of this city were arrested last evening yesterday afternoon by Marshall Hogan in the robbery case of the Fountain cigar store, located in Reed and Kenesaw's barber shop. After being examined by Marshall Hogan for some time, they finally confessed and will be brought up in court tomorrow.

Jan. 29, 1901.—J. F. Sweeney gave a recital at the Congregational church last evening. The church was crowded to the doors, most of the men appearing in evening dress and the women in opera gowns. Mrs. Sweeney gave selections of all the famous composers, all the numbers being well received.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

WINTER ITCH.
This is the season when people with dry and irritable skin should not without malice as though thought baths. Now is the winter of discontent for people who imagine that cleanliness is a mere matter of soap and water and fancy plumbing. The common drinking cup and roller towel are sanitary institutions as compared with the common bathtub, and yet thousands and thousands of our newly well-to-do with regular inside bathrooms and everything actually boast of their use of the bathtub. Real lovers of cleanliness want nothing but a shower.

Many elderly persons, and many younger ones whose metabolism is too slow, scrub almost daily under the influence of the sanitary plumbers' propaganda, and then wonder why they burn and scratch and die and squirm and suffer with winter itch. One wouldn't expect a kid glove or a sheep would look to withstand frequent soap and water washing. Why make such demands on the poor old skin? A bath twice a week is amply sufficient for the average individual in cold weather; once a week is sufficient for many whose work or play does not expose them to much dirt; once in two weeks is often enough for an elderly person to take a soap and water bath.

A person's young person may endure a daily bath all the year round if plenty of artificial tropical climate is available in the colder season. The excessive dryness of the skin caused by too frequent bathing with soap and water, particularly soap, is one cause of winter itch. This may be obviated or relieved by frequent applications to the skin of such lotions as:
Lanolin 1 dram
Doroglycerid 2 drams

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER LXVI
A LONG TALK
Suddenly I remembered that it was getting on to dinner time—and no preparations had been made. I slipped out of the little door, leaving Violet and James deep in the practical details of his new plan to run away.

Violet was eagerly in sympathy with the idea, she felt that life on this out-of-the-way farm, doing hard work that he hated, and subjected to both his father's temper and his mother's nagging, was killing the boy.

At the barn door I stopped. Jim was walking rapidly back to the fields. I waited until he was alone, then I went on to him.

How would I find Esther? I had never seen her face a day since I did not know how she would take it. Her parents' deaths had not been unexpected, and she had taken that philosophically and quietly. But this—

When I entered the kitchen, there was Esther, standing by the table, peeling potatoes. I fairly gasped as I looked at her.

"Dinner'll be late," I said, looking up as I came in. "I told Jim to tell them not to come till half past 12."

"Then it isn't true?" I said with relief. "About that woman?" Esther said, going on with her work. "Yes."

It's true, Jim denied it, but I saw that was true from his face when James came out with it. Finally he said, all right, it was true, and what was I going to do about it?

"And I wanted to know who it was, and first he wouldn't say. He only admitted it was some woman lived over to Eastlake. I don't know many over that way—I remember now, he gets flour from some mills near there, and feed sometimes."

"Then he told me her name. It wasn't anyone I ever knew or heard of. I don't know how he knew her, guess the way they usually do. He said she wasn't that sort though—saw she was perfectly all right, a widow, lives by herself. Expect me to believe that—and she a widow living alone!"

"I dunno which way I'd rather have it," she went on, her voice flat and dull. "The other sort might throw him over for some reason or other, or not tired of him. But this sort might like him and hang on to him. Guess I'll cut chops off that pork. I won't be able to rest tonight."

She gave me a lot of directions while she worked on rapidly, trying to have the big meal ready on time. I might have been deceived into thinking that she took it very calmly, except that she kept her face turned away from me as much as possible. When I did see it, I knew a little of what she had been through. For her eyes were wet, and her face was puffed up and almost hid, then—Esther had little eyes set far in, and now they could hardly be seen at all. Her face was shiny and red and anything but beautiful—in fact, Esther in grief was a pitiable thing to see.

"He's a waste to do that," she burst out, heating the pan before she went to the stove.

put in the chops, as carefully as though her only concern was to fry the meat crisp and tender. "I've been a good wife to him. I never looked at another man. Why should he ever look at another woman? I bore him three children, and I kept his house comfortable all these years and looked after him. And all I get is—that—another woman! Enid, you'll need more butter. I'm boiling the corn on the cob, it's quicker."

I went out to the ice box for more butter, marvelling at her. Not a detail of the meal escaped her. Yet she had, according to her standards, lost the one thing in life she cared for most—her husband.

After all, the greatest consolation is hard work. The woman who can afford the luxury of loafing is not to be envied. The best cure for a broken heart is the necessity of doing an immense number of small tasks.

"Go upstairs and wash your face, and go to my room and take some of my powder," I told her. "Then you'll look better for dinner."

"What's the difference?" she asked bitterly. "He won't look at me anyway. And if he does, he won't care. Do you think he'd care to look at me?"

"Well, put on a clean dress," I urged. "You've spilled water on that. Or listen, Esther, stay in your room, and I'll call you when dinner is over."

"No, it's not to be eaten and me having it later will only delay the work. I'll eat with you."

Again it was the little details that won out. After all, they would be Esther's salvation—as they had been, in the first place, the cause of her sorrow.

Tomorrow—Mark Comes Again
water, two cups of sifted flour and four teaspoons of baking powder. Beat to mix and then carefully fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in muffin pans in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. This will make two dozen cakes. Now place in a bowl two tablespoons of butter, three tablespoons of oil, and sufficient confectioner's sugar that will make an icing that will spread. Beat hard to make smooth. Dip a wooden meat skewer in melted chocolate and then put date or names on them.

TESTED RECIPES
Chile Con Carne—One can tomatoes, two cans kidney beans, one-quarter teaspoon salt, pinch of red pepper, one teaspoon Chile powder, four onions, three-quarters pound ground meat. Fry onions and add meat. Have tomatoes cooked soft, add all together and cook about one-half hour.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes—Bake four large potatoes. Cut off one end of potatoes, scoop out the insides and mash; add one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon of chopped parsley, three tablespoons of melted butter, and mix with fork. Return to shells, put a few drops milk on top; rough with fork; sprinkle with paprika. Bake 15 minutes.

Mock Cherry Pie—Fill a deep pie tin with a good thick crust. Measure one cup cranberries (washed), one cup of bulk raisins (washed), one cup of sugar, one cup of water. Add flour to top of pie before putting top crust on.

Homemade Yeast—Three pints cold water, one teaspoon sugar, one large cracker soaked in water, one large raw potato, one handful hops, tied in a bag. Add hops to water and let boil until it makes a weak tea in appearance. Then add sugar, salt, potatoes; stir 15 minutes while it boils. When cool, add a cake of yeast dissolved in water to a quart. Put in jug. This is an old and good recipe.

HIGH SCHOOL TO HOUSE 800 MONDAY
The high school will be packed with more than 800 pupils next semester. Report cards were given out Friday afternoon in the grade schools and promotions made. Supt. F. O. Holt has been working this week on a program to distribute to the pupils among the schools so as to avoid a jam in any of them. The new semester will open Monday morning. There will be several new teachers and classes in the high school, according to Supt. Holt today.

MAY USE SKIM MILK TO MAKE CHEESE
Use of skim milk for the making of cheese is being encouraged by Janesville distributors as a means of taking care of a part of the surplus milk question.

Investigation is being made whether the dairy laws allow such a practice. Skim milk is being used to some extent by the farmers for stock feeding. Much of it is lost.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR JOE:
Say Joe considering the crime wave and all the automobile thieves and everything do you think I ought to have the baby carriage insured? My cousin Grace and her husband in the insurance business were over and Otto—that's his name—told me that at little or no personal expense, namely $25 a year, I could insure it perfectly against fire, theft and collisions. It sounded very practical the way he explained it out, but later it came over me in a dash of intuition that I could get a new baby carriage for what I'd be paying out for insurance, so I hardly think I'll indulge, though I'd like to oblige Otto because he seemed so very obliging himself, and let for that makes the world go round.

Well Joe Mrs. Fink has taken off her mask and stands revealed in her true colors. In other words she's a snake in the grass only worse and a viper in the bosom only more so. She was over last night and I started to tell her all the things I've been doing to reduce, such as only eating for duty and not for pleasure and teaching my toes ten times every morning, or rather aiming at them from about a foot above, which is my extreme destination when I reach down.

"That reminds me," she says, "do you know what I read in the paper the other day?" she says. "I read the greatest reducer is just plain common ordinary everyday housework," she says, "especially sweeping," she says. "Regular common plain ordinary sweeping with a broom," she says.

"That's a fine idea," I say as unsuspecting as a newfangled egg. "I'll start tomorrow and exercise with the broom an hour or two a day," I say, and she says, "Well then I'll use you for a while, seeing as you won't be using it."

Can you imagine that Joe? The vacuum cleaner that's still being paid for by installments! I couldn't very well refuse her under the circumstances, but personally I wouldn't play a trick like that on anybody at a dog fight.

Leavingly,
Tessie.

30 Percent of Women Give up Office Duties

Thirty percent of young women who have held positions as secretaries and stenographers in Rock county have dropped their pencils and pads to take up household duties. The demand for high grade and pro-efficient office help has not decreased, it is said.

Even when the mills, factories and other industrial plants close the business offices remain open. Also the demand is just as great in the offices of the business and professional men.

Returning service men is directly the cause. The lure of the kitchen and wadded life is greater than a career is a typist or "steno."

Business men here declare that the demand for skilled stenographers is just as great as ever but that there were many girls seeking jobs who are not capable of filling the demands of their positions as to speed, accuracy and general office ability.

"They work so long, become efficient and meet every demand, then along comes some ex-soldier, marine or navy man and the stenographer goes to rustling the vacuum sweeper instead of a typewriter and taking notes on the high cost of living," said one business man.

"Well, sir," began the talkative salesman, "they say silence is golden and speech is only silver."

"Yes," put in the busy business man, "and please make your speech quick—silver."—Notre Dame Journal.

A Little Religion. God made you. You hunger and there is food. You have eyes and there are beauties to behold. You have power and there is work to be done. There is an object for everyone of your five senses. The sense of faith is the sense of the soul. It hungers for immortality, a new life and reaches out and touches the next world. Every time a lowly caterpillar is resurrected from a silken grave to be a beautiful butterfly, we catch new glimpse of God's plan for immortality.—G. L. K. Smith, Pastor, Fortville.

Madison—Pardon application of Miss Grace Lusk, serving a term of 10 years in the state penitentiary for shooting the wife of Dr. David H. Roberts, will be heard by Gov. Blaine at his first pardon hearing. This is the second application forwarded to the state capital. It would have been heard upon by Gov. Phillips, but was withdrawn suddenly on the ground that Miss Lusk's father was seriously ill and could not attend the hearing. Sixteen other requests for pardons have been filed.

La Crosse—The widow of Douglas Mueller, killed in an altercation with Emil Raser, night watchman for the Goodman-Sawyer company last summer, was awarded $2000 damages against Raser. The court took the case in its own hands when the jury was unable to come to an agreement after an all night session. Raser was acquitted in a previous trial of the murder charge. The widow brought suit for $25,000 against the Goodman-Sawyer company and Raser. The court exonerated the company in its decision.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two sisters, one of 14 and one of 15. We do not use any cosmetics and we comb our hair simply and dress simply. We are fair-looking and neat in shape.

We never have been out with fellows, and don't seem to know what makes us so attractive. Some of the most decent fellows have come to us and asked if we would marry them. We are big for our ages. There are 10 in our family and we know how to keep house just like grown women.

We are more than willing to do so, but we would like to know more than anything else why there are so many prettier girls than we and yet we are liked more. We are friendly to every one who comes up and speaks to us. A policeman has asked one of us to marry him. Do you think we are liked by men because we are decent?

TWO HAPPY HEARTS.
Some people are born with charm while others have to cultivate it. Probably you have a pleasing personality which makes friends for you. Do not, however, spoil yourself by letting conceit make you over-confident. Be just as "decent" as you can and trust that when you are old enough the right man will admire you for your goodness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 22 years old and I am in love with a girl 20. We love each other dearly and want to get married, but the only thing that stands between us is our religion. She goes to one kind of church and I go to another. We both like our religion, but our parents do not want either of us to give up for the other.

Do you think we could be happy if we married and had our own religion, or do you think I ought to turn to the girl's religion?

Please give me your advice, for we love each other dearly and do not want to break up. WAITING.

Such a decision should not be hastened. If I were you I would wait a year before promising anything in regard to religion. If you are devoted to each other at the end of that time as you are now, would advise your marriage. I keep his religion. You must love your wife as the mother usually feels that it is her right to take her own religion. You must love your wife as much as you love your religion. I am very sure in my belief that a man should not marry until he is 25. He is not developed before then and does not know his mature likes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl and am in love with a young man who is good-looking and respectable. I am quite sure he cares for me. I have gone places with him and he has always treated me decently.

I have been mean to him lately, but I heard something and it put me against him for a while, but I still care for him. Do you think it is all right for me to keep company with him if he still cares for me? It would break my heart to part with him. My parents do not object to my going with him.

SUNSHINE.
You must use your own judgment about the thing you heard. If you feel the young man has not a good character, you should give him up.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl and am going with a fellow who says he loves me, but he goes with other girls. Do you think he cares for me? I love him dearly. SWEETHEART.

I do not think he loves you since he goes with other girls.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE

An Exception to the Rule
"Dear Miss Page: Do please tell me how I am to cool my coffee, as you say it is not proper to sip it with the spoon. In older times we used to pour our hot coffee in the saucer and then sip from it. So if it is not proper any more either, I love my coffee hot, but not hot enough to scald my mouth.—73 Years Old and still willing to learn."

Bless our kind, Dear Lady, I know you're not "old" at all; you're 73 years young! About the coffee, you know the exceptions there are to every rule? Well, you are one of the exceptions to that rule about coffee. It is not considered good form nowadays to pour one's tea, or coffee into the saucer, and constant sipping from the spoon is under the law also. But having enjoyed your coffee that way for all these years, I think there would be few who would frown upon your continuing to do so.

Unless coffee is served extremely scalding hot, it is usually sufficient for cooling just to stir in the sugar and let the cup stand for a few moments, using the spoon then only to test the temperature before drinking. The chief objection is to the person who stirs violently and sips loudly every mouthful from first to last.

Congratulations
"Dear Miss Page: A friend of mine who has been living here until recently, has been married to a girl whom I do not know. How can I write and congratulate him? I mean how should I write the letter?—Mabel."

Unless you knew the young man so very well that a longer and more personal letter is easier for you to write, it is sufficient to address a formal note or card to him, and Mr. and Mrs. Blank, say that you have heard of their marriage (or received their wedding announcement) and that you hope they will accept your best wishes for great happiness.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. If a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the questions.—The Editor.

Brimes Freed of Murder

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23.—Judge Ferguson in criminal court Friday granted the motion of the defense to take from the jury the case of William P. Brimes, charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of Elmer C. Drewes, on the ground that not sufficient evidence had been submitted to connect the defendant with Drewes' death.

Judge Ferguson instructed the jury to acquit the defendant, which it did without leaving the box.

Mother Is Happy
Brimes, who is about 22, was instantly surrounded by many friends, who congratulated him. His mother said it was the happiest moment of her life, and added she was sure her son would be acquitted.

Mrs. Agatha Drewes, mother of the dead Dartmouth college student, left the courtroom sobbing. She said: "This is terrible. I am stunned."

Mother's Watch Trial
William P. Brimes was tried for the murder of his college chum, Elmer C. Drewes, Dartmouth college student. Drewes' body was found carefully placed under an arc light at the side of a road in the outskirts of Philadelphia the night of October 16, last year. He had been shot. And as the state and defense waged a legal battle Mrs. Annie Brimes, mother of the accused youth, and Mrs. Christian P. Drewes, mother of the murdered boy, listened. From

Liberal Use of Milk

The Children's Need

Growing children must have bone-making, muscle-building, mind-developing food. Milk—in a manner unlike any other food—builds up your children and preserves their health. That is why milk is the economy food. One quart of milk contains food strength that cannot be equaled in any other food at far greater cost.

Milk is the perfect food. The reason is: milk contains all the elements necessary to the sustaining of life, body-building, muscle-making and mind developing.

Milk—and the products of milk—butter, cheese and ice cream—have in them the energy elements that will keep this nation big and strong.

As you want your country big and powerful, make your children healthy and strong.

Father never looked up once while she was reading it. He kept his eyes on his plate and the baked beans he was eating. "I watched him," she said. "I knew, by Aunt Jane's reading the letter to him, that it was something he had got to decide; and then, I found out what it was, of course, I was just crazy. I wanted to go so. So I watched Father's face to see if he was going to let me go. But I couldn't make out. I couldn't make out at all. It changed—oh yes, it changed a great deal as she read; but I couldn't make out what kind of a change it was at all."

Aunt Jane finished the letter and began to fold it up. "I could see she was waiting for Father to speak; but he never said a word. He kept right on eating beans."

Then Aunt Jane cleared her throat and spoke. "You will not let her go, of course, Charles; but naturally I had to read the letter to you. I will write to Mrs. Anderson to tell her."

Father looked up then. "Yes," he said quietly. "And you may tell her, please, that Mary will go."

"Charles!" said Aunt Jane again. "Surely you aren't going to give in so tamely as this to that child and her mother!"

"I'm not giving in at all, Jane," said Father, very quietly again. "I am consulting my own wishes in the matter. I prefer to have her go."

"I most certainly would not," he said. "I want to have her stay here. I want to have her stay here. I want to have her stay here."

"Jane!" Just like that he interrupted, and he thundered, too, so that Aunt Jane actually jumped. And I guess I did, too. He had sprung to his feet. "Jane, let us close this matter once for all. I am not letting the child go for my sake. I am letting her go for her own. So far as I am concerned, I consulted no one's wishes but my own. I should keep her here always."

With that he turned and strode from the room, leaving Jane and me just staring after him.

But only for a minute did I stare. I came to me then what he had said. He was sure I had heard it. I was sure I had heard it. I was sure I had heard it.

"The next day he was more as he has been since we had that talk in the parlor. And he has been different since then. He really has. He has talked quite a lot with me, as I have said, and I think he's been trying, part of the time, to find something I'll be interested in. Even up to George Feyerherd and Stella Esby. I think he's been trying to make Mary and Charlie Smith and Mr. Livingstone. I think that's why he took me to walk that day in the woods, and why he took me out to the observatory to see the stars quite a number of times. Twice he asked me to play to him, and once he asked me if Mary wasn't about ready to dress up in Mary's clothes again. But he was joking then. I knew, for Aunt Jane was right there in the house. Besides, I saw the twinkle in his eyes. The twinkle that had been there before. I just love that twinkle in Father's eyes!"

But that hasn't come any since Mother's letter to Aunt Jane was delivered. I don't know what the way yet different in another. Honestly, if it didn't seem too wildly absurd for anything, I should say he was actually going to leave me. But he can't, of course, that isn't possible. Oh, yes, I know he said that day at the dinner table that he should like to keep me always. But I don't think he really meant it. He hasn't acted a mile like that since, and I guess he said it just to hush up Aunt Jane, and to make her stop arguing the matter. Anyway, I'm going tomorrow. And I'm so excited I can hardly breathe.

CHAPTER VI

When I Am Both Together

Boston again.

Well, I came home last night. Mother and Grandfather and Aunt Mattie and Baby Lester all met me at the station. And my wasn't I glad to see them? Well, I just guess I was.

I was specially glad on account of having such a dreadfully time with Father that morning. I mean, I was feeling specially lonesome and homesick, and not-belonging-anywhere-like.

You see, it was this way: I'd been sick, and I'd been in bed for a long time. When I came to really go, Father would not back the understanding smile and the twinkle, and show that he really did care for me, and was glad to have me go. But then, when I was sitting at the table and how little he was really thinking of me!

Well, of course, he got my ticket and checked my trunk, and did all those things that were necessary. Then we sat down to wait for the train. But did he stay with me and talk to me and tell me how glad he had been to have me with him, and how sorry he was to have me go, and all the other nice, polite things most everybody thinks they've got to say when a visitor goes away? No, he didn't. He asked me again if I was sure I had not left anything, and was I warmly clad; then he took up his newspaper and began to read. That is, he pretended to read; but I don't believe he read much, for he never turned his sheet once; and twice, when I looked at him, he was looking fixedly at me, as if he was thinking of something. So I guess he was just pretending to read, so he wouldn't have to talk to me.

But he didn't even do that long, for he got up and went over and looked at a map hanging on the wall opposite, and a big time-table near the other corner. Then he looked at his watch again with a won't-that-brain-ever-come? air, and walked back to me and sat down.

And how do you suppose I felt, to have him act like that before all those people—to show so plainly that he was just longing to have me go? I guess he wasn't any more anxious for that train to come than I was. And it did seem as if it never would come, too. And Aunt Jane came for ages. It was ten minutes later.

Oh, I did so hope he wouldn't go down to the junction. It's so hard to be taken care of "because it's my duty," you know. But he went. He told him he hadn't, when he was getting on the train with me. I told him I just knew I could do it beautifully all by myself, almost-a-young lady like me. But he only put his lips together hard, and said, like ice: "Are you then so eager to be rid of me?" Just as if I was the one that was eager to get rid of somebody! (To be continued.)

Dinner Stories

A cinema man stopped in the lobby of a theater at 9 o'clock or so the other night to chat with the manager. "I'm most anxious to see you," he said. "I've been waiting for you for two weeks. I've been waiting for you for two weeks. I've been waiting for you for two weeks."

The two men soon got to arguing about the respective merits of the cinema and the legitimate theater. "All this here talk about the films' superiority," the manager said finally, "makes me sick. I don't believe in them. I don't believe in them. I don't believe in them."

The Bishop of Birmingham said at a Los Angeles luncheon: "Churchgoing becomes rarer and rarer among the peoples as the years pass. In Birmingham one Sunday morning a clubman, seated at a club window, looked up from his paper and said: 'Say, mister, gimme me money back, will ye?'"

"It's either," said a second clubman, "that Thompson has had another attack of heart trouble or else Mrs. Thompson has got a new dress."

The weary traveler and his wife arrived at the country inn after a long and tiresome tramp through the country. The husband went to the innkeeper and asked him what he could give them to eat.

"Only one!" exclaimed the innkeeper. "In that case what can my wife eat?"

DOG STORIES

Dickey Goes to Church

When I was a small boy my father got a dog for me. At about the same time he came to our town, and my folks entertained his singers in our home. These folks named our dog "Dickey" and took him frequently to church. When they went to church, Dickey would howl merrily when they would play the piano.

One evening when a church service was in progress Dickey decided he would attend. He rushed to the church during the song service. Up to the very front he went and sat down on his hind legs in front of the one who was leading the singing and commenced to howl.

INDOOR MAGIC

The Magnetized Ruler

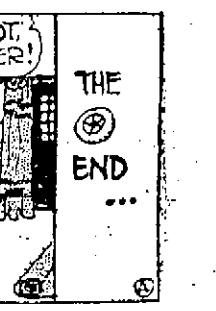

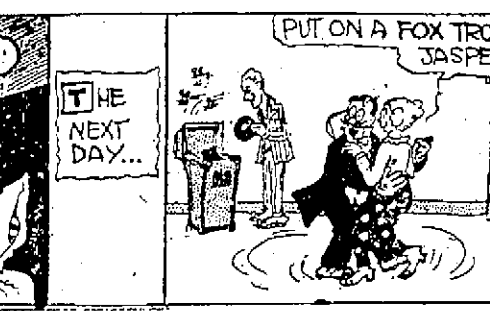

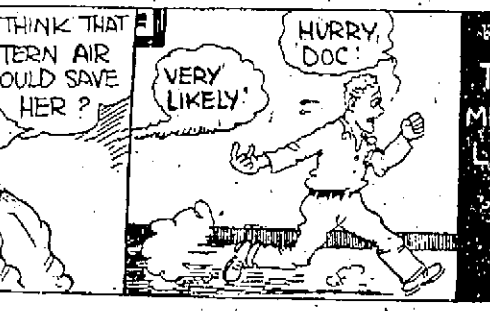

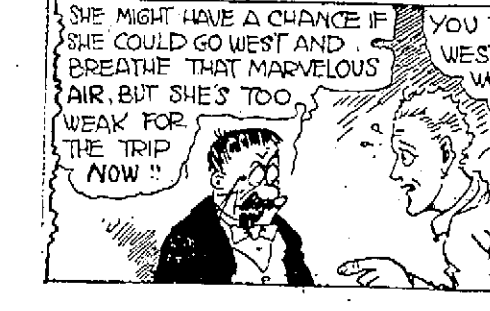

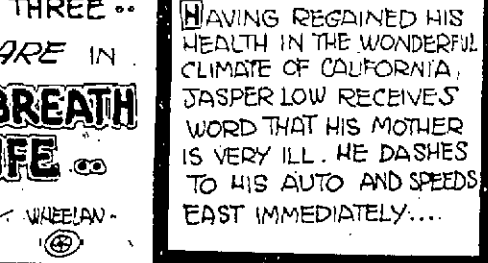

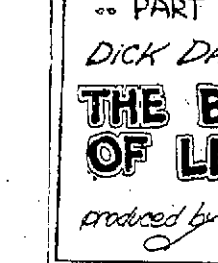

Fasten a black thread to the knees of your trousers. Have it of such length that when you spread your legs apart slightly the thread will be taut. Then take a ruler or some similar object of greater length than the ruler to be too short. Pretending to magnetize it, make various gestures over the ruler. Lean it against the wall, and it will stand in an upright position. A little "talk" to accompany this trick is almost necessary to its success.

PUT ON FAT! MOVIE OF THESE STUDENTS

Eldon, Mo.—Of the 502 boys and girls in the nutrition class of the local Chapter of the American Red Cross, who were weighed and measured, 198, or 39 per cent, were found to be underweight.

A second measure was taken, two weeks later and all but five of the 502 had gained weight. The gain was 11.5 pounds. The class was being furnished by the Red Cross chapter to the undernourished pupils and arrangements are being made with lunch room owners to provide at least one hot dish daily for pupils who cannot take their noonday meal at home.

PARTY STUNTS

Ask each guest to bring to the party a picture of himself when a baby. The name of the owner should be written on the back of each picture to avoid a mixup after the game has been played.

Place the pictures on the wall in a row about level with the eye. Number each one. Put the whole set of numbers on some slips of paper. One of these slips with a pencil is handed to each guest with the instructions that he is to guess the identity of as many of the babies as possible. He gets, of course, that each guest was once one of the babies.

The person who guesses the greatest number of names correctly should be given an award.

BILLY WHISKER

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

It was while Billy was waiting for things to subside that he saw and heard the queer antics of the fat lady after they had pulled her out of the hole she had made in the platform. It seemed to the watching and listening Billy that she was more mad than hurt.

"What is that horrid goat?" she screamed. "I want to sit down on him just once for luck. I'll teach him to jump at folks like that! There won't be a greater spot left when I get through with him. Why?"

"I wish the Treat boys hadn't been there," Billy went on. "They will tell everybody at Cloverleaf Farm how it all happened and Tilly Parrot at least will never be through laughing at it."

Billy needn't have worried over this for it was many a day before he was to see his friends at Cloverleaf Farm.

"You see that Billy did not even yet know that it was the elephant trunk that called it his nose."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—stick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

ILLINOIS OUTFIT FAILS TO ACCEPT TERMS FOR GAME

At a late hour Friday night word was received here by the All-Stars that Woodstock, Ill., backed to appear here tonight, had cancelled. Indefinite excuse in regard to the terms is given as the reason. Relations between the two clubs have not been broken off, however, and the game may be played in the near future.

Efforts to bring another team here in haste to fill the engagement failed. Deloit, Rockford and Fulton were tried with no discovery that each had games booked for tonight.

Tickets Still Good.

Tickets which the Stars sold for the game with Woodstock will be good for next Saturday's fray with Delavan high here, according to word given out today. This game promises to be a fast battle, the lake town boys being reinforced by two new men.

JEFFERSON HIGH DEFEATS FORT, 24-10

(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Fort Atkinson, Jan. 28.—Drawing out of a hole into which Fort Atkinson had put them to the tune of 9 to 1 at the end of the first quarter, Jefferson high school rushed into the lead in a game played here Friday night and won handily 24 to 10. The second quarter was given over entirely to Jefferson by her old rival, Fort falling to add a point, while the Jets scored twelve. The third quarter was similar, with Jefferson picking up five points and the Fort one, the score standing 18 to 4.

The game was hot. Fort threw her entire force into the fray, but her defense could not stand the onslaughts. In the final period, the locals pushed over two field goals and a couple of free throws, but Jefferson was not idle.

Samson No. 2, holders of third place in the Industrial bowling league, took a slight fall out of the Rock River Machinists Friday night by winning two games. At the same time Hanson Furniture, crushed through the Parker Pen for three straight, one by only eight pins. While this leaves the standings the same, they are running close. The Gazette swiped two from the American Express, one by three maples, and the Woolen Mills earned two from the Caddisbrook.

High score for the West Side and for the night was made by Kressin with 213 with McDonald second for the west siders. Sinclair rolled at East Side with 208; Smith second at 198.

NO PRACTICE COURT; BASKET FIVE DROPS

(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Evansville, Jan. 29.—Because they are unable to procure a place in which to practice, the city team of Evansville has been forced to abandon for the season. The club was going along in great shape and bringing notice to the town. This is particularly the reason that the team lost by so wide a margin to the Janesville All-Stars, Thursday. Before that game they had had no practice except in the previous clash with the Stars.

SMITH'S ARCADES LEAD BOWLING MEET

Milwaukee, Jan. 29.—Smith's Arcade team No. 6, shooting on the last shift of the state bowling tournament last night, established a score of 2,843 as the high mark of the meet. The advance guard of out of town bowlers will enter the lists today.

Here and There, but Mostly Here

By FRANK SINCLAIR, Sporting Editor.

In engaging George H. Crandall, a graduate of the institution, as physical director and coach, Milton college has joined the ranks of the more progressive educational institutions of the country in recognizing the constructive value of sports to the students. At the same time, it gives official cognizance that the former method of leaving team training and athletic instruction to teachers as a side-line and to members of the undergraduate body is haphazard to say the least. Further it shows that the old system is considered too costly from the showing that it has produced.

No matter how good the individual material that any college or school may possess, unless it is wisely guided and efficiently coached in team work, no efficiency approximating 100 per cent will ever be reached. Without the aid of a man trained in correcting the faults of athletes and having the ability to use every resource to the greatest advantage towards victory, outstanding stars will flash across the horizon for a brief space only to drop out of sight. With proper guidance, even the less brilliant performers will be able to hold their place in the firmament of competition.

Sounds Onward March.

The employment of Crandall, considered one of the greatest all-round athletes that Milton has produced, star pitcher of the state championship Milton high baseball team of 1910, and baseball player of note to Janesville and other cities, is in keeping with forward steps of Milton in the realm of amateur college sports. When the college started its tournament for high schools of southern Wisconsin, it moved upward. Moreover, it gained a reputation in the eyes of high school coaches.

Athletes more often than not swerve the sentiment of boys planning to enter college. If the football team had been forced to abandon team of that, the baseball nine of another, or the track squad of yet some other is doing things that appeal to his red-blooded instincts, the lad makes his decision with such records as unconscious, and very often very conscious, guides. Athletics keep the school before the youth of the country, and sometimes cause him to think of college where otherwise he might not have wanted to add to his fund of knowledge.

High Schools Must Awaken.

To link physical development with sports always has been the aim of American institutions of learning. To link a yearning for many competition with studies is the ideal that the smaller colleges are coming to. As time passes, our high schools will come to take more of the same viewpoint. They already have in the larger cities. The smaller communities have lagged behind. There is really nothing peculiar about the condition of the teams of Janesville high for the past few years. They have not been properly coached because they have not been guided by men able to give sufficient time, and this is not the fault of the coaches, but of the system. Janesville lies in a false place. It lacks the physical directors of larger cities and many cities of its own size; it has not the brain that boys of the smaller towns have, due to greater participation in physical labor. This would seem to demand that the school boys of this city stand in greater need of physical training than some people think.

Board Here Thinking.

This condition, however, is going to be taken care of in the not very distant future. The board of education is thinking. It is already known that two of the members favor some sort of change. It is quite positive that Janesville will have a football coach next year that will turn out a team of the calibre of 1911.

But while this lagging continues, praise must be given "Mike" Efield and "Doc" Woodworth for taking a deep personal interest in the athletic conditions of the school. They have been out themselves at practice during the football season. Efield with the boys of the American Legion right now is engaging in scrimmage basketball practice with the high school boys once or twice a week.

HIGH AND "Y" BOYS IN PRACTICE TONIGHT

Janesville high and a class from the seniors of the Y. M. C. A. will crash in a practice game at the high school tonight. The game will start at 7:30. This is one of a series of work-out matches that Coach Reynor is staging for the Blues to keep them in trim during the commencement and examination period. The next game is with Edgerton here next Friday night.

WISCONSIN IN TIE FOR FOURTH PLACE IN BIG TEN RACE

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Four Western conference basketball fives meet in contests tonight which again will shake up standings in the close Big Ten race for the championship. Chicago plays Michigan here with the Maroon's hold on third place at stake. Wisconsin, in fourth place will clash with Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Purdue's victory over Indiana, at Lafayette last night, 27-19, moved the Boilermakers up into the lead in the race.

The standing in the conference today follows:
Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Purdue	3	0	1.000
Indiana	4	1	.800
Chicago	2	1	.666
Wisconsin	2	1	.500
Illinois	2	1	.500
Minnesota	1	1	.500
Michigan	2	2	.400
Ohio State	1	2	.333
Northwestern	1	2	.333
Iowa	0	3	.000

LAWRENCE DEFEATS CARROLL COLLEGE

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 29.—Lawrence college basketball team defeated Carroll college of Waukesha here last night 25-10.

BIG CROWD AWAITS MILTON-RIPON GAME

Milton, Jan. 29.—A record attendance is expected at the Milton-Ripon game in the college gymnasium here tonight. Bleacher seats have been erected on both sides of the big floor in order to accommodate the crowd, which is expected to include many basketball fans from Janesville, Watertown and other towns near by.

In a preliminary game Milton Union high school will play White-water Commercial high.

Several Milton students, including three members of the varsity squad, witnessed the game between Ripon and Beloit at Beloit last night. By defeating the Gateway city collegians Ripon won undisputed possession of first place in the "Little Five" conference.

TWO TANK GAMES AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Two basketball games are scheduled for the armory here tonight. The Tank first will play the second game of a series with the St. Mary's church five. The tanks have one victory over the Saints to their credit.

Tank seconds play the rubber game with the Shamrocks. Each of these teams has one victory over the other to its credit. Games start at 8 o'clock.

ELKS PROCEED TO PLAN BOUTS WHILE AWAITING LICENSE

While waiting for the state boxing commission to act upon its application for a boxing and sparring club in this city, the local lodge of Elks is preparing for the first card. While no definite date can yet be set, the committee in charge states that the opening fight will be given as soon as possible.

Shows here will be run under a duly organized company under the jurisdiction of the Elks. Proper officials will be appointed to officiate at the ring-side. They will be under the supervision of a competent board of directors to be chosen which will have charge of the arrangement of cage and business details.

Enthusiasm here over the proposed organization is at such high pitch that an overflow crowd will attend the first match. This will be held at the rooms of the lodge. In the event that the support proves big enough, larger quarters will be found for the second program.

Have You Read Ford Motor Co's. Announcement in Last Night's Gazette?

If you have not, please read it in detail, as it fully explains why Henry Ford can reduce his price on the Tractor. Everybody should know all about it.

Ford Motor Company reduced the price of the Fordson Tractor $165.00, which makes the selling price of the Fordson Tractor delivered on your farm anywhere in Rock County for $652.00.

Like the Ford Car Mr. Ford's aim has been to put the Tractor out at a price so that it is within the reach of every farmer. The Fordson tractor needs no further introduction, it has been out about three years, and one-half of all the Tractors used in the United States are Fordsons.

Now that the price is down to $652.00 no farmer can afford to be without a Fordson tractor. Farmers are invited to come in and go over this proposition thoroughly. Let us explain what the Fordson will do. If you can not call, write or telephone and my salesman will be pleased to call and see you.

"There is no Charge in the Present Ford Car and Truck Prices, which are already at the lowest possible figure, and now with rock bottom reached on the tractor price, a further reduction in price of either the car, truck or tractor, is out of the question; in fact, the big price cuts have been made in anticipation of continuous maximum production and increases may be necessary before long if a large volume of new business is not obtained. Therefore, present prices of Ford Products cannot be guaranteed against possible increases."

I will be pleased to demonstrate the Tractor, as I am using one for power in my Sales and Service station for operating my shop machines. Remember that you can buy your Ford Car, Truck or Tractor in Janesville or Milton Junction, regardless of where you live.

A Warning of Vital Importance to Every Automobile Owner

Secretary of the Treasury Houston at Washington Has Informed Congress That They Must Raise $290,000,000 From Auto Owners Each Year for the Next Four Years

This is to be the "Auto Owners' Part" of a Total of Two Billions of Dollars to be Raised Over and Above All Present or Past Government Income

To raise this amount, which is accepted as being correct, Mr. Houston has proposed and recommended to Congress that this two hundred and ninety millions of dollars be raised from a tax on the automobile industry, including all car owners of cars of all types. If this is carried into effect it means an additional tax on every car now in operation of approximately $62.00.

It is manifestly unfair to single out one particular industry to bear such an immense proportion of this necessary increase in taxes. It can be said without a dissenting voice that the automobile manufacturers, the automobile dealers and the thousands of you who comprise the automobile owning public, are not only willing but anxious to pay your fair proportion of any tax increase that is necessary to conduct our government; but when one industry, which has grown to be the third greatest in the country, is singled out exclusive of all others and an estimate made that this particular industry should pay the enormous amount of two hundred and ninety millions of dollars, we believe you will agree that in your own interest, a protest should be entered—not a protest against paying your just share, but a protest against paying an unfair share. The amount calculated to be paid by the Automobile Industry and Owners based on the number of automobiles in use in the United States means that each car owner will be called upon to pay about $62.00 more than ever before. Understand that this is a national tax and has nothing to do with any proposed state taxes which might help to get better roads or other improved conditions for the motorists. (There is also before Congress a bill to double the state tax on automobiles.) Secretary Houston's official position makes it almost a certainty that his recommendations will be carried out unless all who now own automobiles enter their strong protest.

If you, Mr. Car Owner, want to save this, cut out the coupon below and mail it NOW to your Congressman or Senator.

CLIFFORD E. RANDALL IS YOUR REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS.
ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE AND IRVINE L. LENROOT ARE THE SENATORS FROM WISCONSIN.
To	CONGRESSMAN
.....	SENATOR
I desire to respectfully but emphatically protest against any legislation that will put any special tax on automobile owners such as that proposed in the recommendation that approximately two hundred and ninety millions of dollars be raised from the automobile industry. I agree that automobile owners should pay a just and fair proportion of the necessary increase in revenue, but it is manifestly unfair that we be singled out for any amount such as $290,000,000.
